Dear Mr. Bhatti,

On behalf of FOWPAL members, I am pleased to extend you our congratulation as you have been selected to be an Honorary International Development Committee Member of FOWPAL based on the review of the FOWPAL Jury Committee. Your commitment to love and peace will surely bring a bright, wonderful world to people - in the present and in the future.

Love and peace are inherent aspirations of people. Numerous world leaders, influential individuals, and peace-loving people have put much effort into carrying out this great aim for all in human history. We are convinced that inspiring one's good intentions is essential and fundamental for love and peace. Therefore, members of FOWPAL have made their best efforts to make things happen in all possibilities.

“Love and Peace” is only a slogan or simply words with no real significance to anyone unless we take actions to turn it into reality. Peace will not happen if we do nothing about love. We are very happy that you share the same philosophy and common goal as FOWPAL. Your contribution will be an indispensable force to form a plane from a point and a line and help achieve a world of peace. Let's work together to inspire partners on the road toward love and peace through conferences, workshops, cultural exchanges and information/article sharing, etc. A seed of love and peace is never too little, for one day it will grow into a large tree to shelter humanity.

A series of encouraging news came out of international press lately. Dominican President defused crisis of war in Latin America. A peace accord was reached between Chad and Sudan, which was mediated by Senegal's President. The peaceful resolution of conflict is one of the major concerns of UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-Moon. Good news one after another, which has
